a journey around the sun every year, and a long but rapid trip it is. The distance of our planet from the sun we will put at 92,000,000 miles. This is the radius of the earth's orbit—half the diameter of the circle, as we call it. The whole diameter is therefore 184,-000,000 miles, and the circumference, being the diameter multiplied by 8, 1416, is about 578,000,000.

This amazing distance the earth travels in its yearly journey, and dividing it by 365 we find the daily speed about 1,586,000. On the whole, the Vatican may be divided into seven portions. These are the pontifical residence, the Sistine and Pauline chapels, the picture galleries JOHN P. SCHERFF the library, the museums of sculpture and archeology, the outbuildings, including the barracks of the Swis guards, and, lastly, the gardens with the pope's casino. Of these the Sistine chapel, the galleries and museums and the library are incomparably the most

The name Sistine is derived from Sixtus IV. The library was founded by Nicholas V, whose love of books was almost equal to his passion for building. The galleries are representative of Raphael's work, which predominates to such an extent that the paintings of al most all other artists are of secondary im-portance, precisely as Michael Angelo filled the Sistine chapel with himself. As for the museums, the objects they contain have been accumulated by many popes, but their existence ought perhaps to be chiefly attributed to Julius II and Leo X, the principal representatives of the Rovere and Medici families.—F.
